Awami League sets the worst example of human rights violation in Bangladesh

The human right situation of a country reveals its real status in perspective of civilization and modesty. In that context, we are at the last end of the bottom. Renowned scholar Gettel had said, “In a state of nature real liberty for all would be impossible. But what would happen if the state becomes the prime obstruction to the citizen rights. Under such worst consequence, people’s basic rights are taken away and the law and the judiciary face ultimate collapse. Even before coming to the office, Awami League initiated its worst culture of human rights violation. Immediate after the independence through the liberation war of 1971, Awami League came into the power as the first government. Coming to the power for the maiden time in those days, Awami League commenced its ill practices like terrorism, corruption, looting and extortion and also launched a new trend of violating human rights by oppressing the dissident forces. News of such massive irregularities was published in the newspaper of those days.

Noted journalist Anthony Macarenhas mentioned in his famous book ‘Legacy of Blood’ that, “the entire situation became horrible due to terrorism, looting and vindictive activities of the armed terrorist groups. After the liberation war, Sheikh Mujib formed an elite para-military force formed on 8 February 1972 by an order commonly known as ’Jatiyo Rakkhi Bahini Act, 1972’ X. It was an auxiliary force of police which turned into a private army loyal only to Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman. Professor Ghulam Murshid compared it with Gestapo, while Anthony Mascarenhas said that there were a few differences between Hitler's Nazis and Mujib's Jatiyo Rakkhi Bahini. This force had been utilized to conduct crackdown against the dissident section who tried to say a few words against Sheikh Mujib.

The massive usage of arms and ammunition between the force in position and the opposition, general masses experienced extreme insecurity. According to Brigadier Monju, he and his team were able to recover 33,000 arms and 3.8 millions of ammunition from six districts. By the end of 1973, the number of political murder exceeded 2 thousand.

Coming to the power in 2008, Awami League again breeched the human rights of the people severely. The party, this time initiated its journey of violating human rights through the barbaric incident of 20th October, 2006. People around the world witnessed that brutality of the ruling party men through print and electronic media. Though verbally, Awami League is extremely vocal about protecting and preserving human rights but practically they failed show minimum respect towards the human rights of the 160 million people.
In a country like Bangladesh, most of the incidents of violating human rights are being happened due to political reason. Since the independence, such violation actually took place simply out of political vengeance. In most of the occasion, the law enforcers or the ruling party cadres played the role of catalyst in violating human rights. The current tenure of the incumbent government also can be regarded as a saga of human rights of violation. All kind of heinous and inhuman incidents including torture towards women and children, mob beating, acid throwing, murder, abduction, kidnapping, crossfire, custodial death, torture in remand and prosecuting the opponents capitalizing state apparatus, all are the reality now.
It becomes a common phenomenon of the politics that, the authority is using the law enforcers to harass and oppress the people in opposition. People are being arrested without any warrant and subsequently are being confined for months in connection with false charges. Usually the convention is, a case should be lodged before arresting someone, but now the scenario has been changed and the people are now arrested first and later, he is shown arrested in some political cases. So in one word, though there are some noises from the government part about defending human rights but practically no visible efforts are seen from the authority yet.

The human rights situation of Bangladesh has become the burning issue in many parliaments and forums around the world now days. The media, world renowned human rights forums are expressing their concern about the gross violation of human rights in Bangladesh. They are drawing attention of the government here but regrettably the Awami League government is not paying any heed to their call and continuing oppressing the opposition backed leaders and activists.
Prior to the election of 2008, Awami League pledged in its manifesto (Article 5.4, 2008) that if they can clinch the power, would ensure political stability and tolerance. But the reality is totally reverse. On 7th July of 2010, the opposition quarter arranged a human chain in the city protesting against various undemocratic activities of the government. Though Bangladesh constitution in its article 37 ensures the right of holding procession and gathering but on that day police dispersed the gathering by attacking nakedly and substantiated the intolerance of the government.

Though Awami League had chanted some nice attractive slogans before the 2008 election like ‘Change’ or Digital Bangladesh’ but in reality they got involved with some severe corruption like Padma bridge scam, Destiny scandal, Hallmark group scandal, share market looting or quick rental power plant projects. Its student wing Chhatra League launched an evil trend in all academic institutions by conducting murder, extortion, tender terrorism, hijacking, robbery, seat and admission business and extortion. Thousands of hundreds of student’s future are at the verge of uncertainty due to their misdeeds. The terrorism and police’s brutality is becoming exposed as the hospitals are full of injured and wounded people. Abduction and extra judicial killing have become a daily phenomenon in Bangladesh. People are often identified as missing and their bodies even are not found. Police has turned into a brutal force as they like to arrest the people in opposition so that they can take money from them. If the detainee does not cooperate, police are killing them usually in the name of gunfight or shot fire from close range just to make him crippled forever.

Following the election of 2009, all the tyrannical and autocratic forces became united to use the state apparatus to attain their ill political interest. Human rights institutions are observing such bad practices closely. An elected government must take steps to resolve the fundamental crisis of the people, fading that conventional trust away, the human rights condition became severely deteriorated. If the elected authority is not pro-people and pro-democratic, then only an electoral procedure is not enough to ensure the expected political rights of the citizens.
This particular report actually focuses on the democratic and human right status of the country from 2009 to 2015. Here we have tried to uphold the information, how the political and citizen’s rights have been violated, how the freedoms of speech have been subdued and how the people have been deprived from justice by squeezing and politicizing the judicial process. All these violations have taken place during the tenure of the elected political government. During this period, the numbers of extra judicial killings have been reduced, while the incidents of abductions have rampantly increased. As if, the government has chosen this strategy on the face of severe criticism from the global arena in regards to extra judicial killing. Besides, incident of custodial torture and custodial death is happening frequently. In the meantime, a culture has been initiated of not producing the detainee before the 24 court within 24 hours of arrest, though it is obligatory. Such unofficial detention and torture in the name of remand is absolutely a violation of human rights. Though the government has verbally declared a zero tolerance about the torture of the law enforcement bodies but officially they did not take any practical measures to stop this bad culture yet. Rather the law enforcers are given an unprecedented privilege of immunity. Bangladesh has signed the Convention against Torture (CAT) on 5th October of 1998, but till date no relevant law has enacted. In a case titled ‘BLAST (Bangladesh Legal Aid Services and Trust) Vs Bangladesh, the honorable High Court has delivered some specific directives about tortures by the law enforcers. But the law enforcing authorities are breaching those directives regularly.

If violations of an individual’s human rights are to be assessed, it must be conducted according to the spirit of the constitution. Human right does not refer someone’s personal right only; actually it is the inevitable part of democracy. On last 30th June of 2011, amending some 51 sensitive political issues, the constitution has been amended for 15th times. It may cause worst consequence as it brought some major changes in the fundamental structure of Bangladesh. The new things which have been added in this amendment is the inclusion some new unchangeable section like 7 (a) and 7 (b). The human rights bodies always raised vocal against article 142 of the constitution as it is used like a tool against the general masses. Actually, the entire amendment is a true structure which is needed to establish autocracy against the opinion of the majority of the population. Such amendment did not worsen the human rights condition of Bangladesh, rather it also push the nation towards danger.

Practically, since 2011, the human rights situation of the country became more deplorable. Mob beating changed its aspect and at this time, under the indirect backing of the law enforcers, teenagers like Shamsuddin Milon, Rakib, Rajon and Bishwajit were beaten and stabbed to death in broad day light.

Since Awami League led grand alliance government came into the office in 2009, casualties in political violence increased widely. From 2009 till 2015 some 251, 220, 135, 224, 506, 182 and 164 people killed in the respective year due to political violence. In general, tender terrorism, extortion, seat business, admission business, controlling dormitories and establishing dominance works as the main cause behind such violence.

Moreover, the ruling party cadres and the law enforcers jointly carried attack upon the leaders and activists of the opposition forces. The police forces have no hesitation to attack and to disperse the opposition program, as they get direct backing from the authority. There are several examples of physical attack upon the opposition’s senior leaders including the opposition chief whip by the junior police officers. Along with the policemen, different front and wing organizations of the ruling Awami League including Jubo League and Chhatra League are responsible for the extreme deterioration of the law and order and the human rights situation nationwide.

Crackdown on Jamaat-e-Islami:

During the period of 2009 to 2015, Bangladesh Jamaat-e-Islami, has faced the worst oppression and torture from the government. The leaders and activists of this organization have experienced the highest number of repressions like custodial torture, abduction, mass arrest, arbitrary arrest in connection with false and politically motivated cases etc. Till now, 242 people of this organization have been murdered, over 30 thousands got injured, more than hundred party men became abducted, and more than a million people became imprisoned in connection with over hundred thousand political cases in past 7 years. Besides, hundreds of female activists of this organization became subdued inhumanly. Many of them were forced to imprisonment. Besides, 3 female activists have been murdered and one had face bullet from so close range that her leg was immediately cut off.

Attack on Minorities:

Due to political violence in last 7 years of Awami regime, 1682 people have been killed, 54,102 people got injured. Besides, many incidents of torturing on minority and land grabbing took place in this time, in which in most of the occasions, ruling party cadres were substantially proved to have connections. In such incidents, 127 were killed, 387 got wounded, 279 temples and minority establishments were vandalized and 59 minority women were raped.
The torture and crackdown on minorities continued in 2015 as well. In this one year, 104 minority houses were vandalized and ransacked while 213 Hindu idols were broken. Besides, the minority people from Ahmadia and Christian community also came under attack but in most of the cases, the law enforcers did not take any preventive measures to tackle those incidents.

According to human right body, Aain O Salish Kendra, ruling Awami League launched a new malpractice of land grabbing in this tenure. In a recent press conference, the executive director of this organization and former advisor to the caretaker government Advocate Sultana Kamal alleged that ruling party’s MP and ministers are involved with the incident of land grabbing in most of the cases. They pointed finger at the ruling party MPs and ministers of the Thakurgaon constituency in the press meet. Same allegations of snatching the land properties of Hindu people away has been raised against the ruling party MPs of Pirojpur district Abdul Awal and Dinajpur Parbotipur constituency and minister Mostafizur Rahman Fijar as well.

Torture against women:

Another bad practice which has been raised under this regime is torture against women. Since 2009, the rate of such torture is increasing and it reached its peak in 2011. Along with the police attack, during this period, 2725 women and 2796 female kids were raped, 1559 ladies were attacked for dowry, 105 committed suicide and 1455 women faced sexual harassment. But afterwards, such incidents increased more and behind such mobility, criminalization under political influence, passivity of the law enforcers and limitations of the criminal procedure were responsible.

Attack on Journalist:
During the current regime of Awami League, the journalist community faced the worst ever repression. Already 13 journalists were murdered, 776 got wounded, 20 journos were arrested and 295 were threatened to be murdered. Bengali Daily Amar Desh Editor Mahmudur Rahman and Bangladesh Federal Union of Journalist President Shaqkat Mahmud have been kept behind the bar for years.

Political Harassment:

Thousands of opposition leaders and activists have been arrested and harassed during the last 7 year of Awami League tenure. In the name of combing operations, innumerable numbers of opposition are being taken behind the bar. The opposition top leaders including the secretary Generals are being arrested in a case of torching vehicles. In the name of police remand, inhuman tortures were made against the detainees. Though many cases which had been filed against the ruling party leaders were withdrawn in political consideration, but new cases are being lodged one after one against the opposition activists. The administration took a biased role to subdue the opposition forces. The world renowned human rights bodies started criticizing the government as a death row convict has been released by using president’s clemency just because of his connection with the ruling party.

The judiciary has been politicized and it’s position has been made questionable. The judiciary is being used to oppress the opposition. The ruling party thugs are being released applying executive interference while the innocent opposition men are passing days after days behind the bar. As a result, the general people are losing confidence and trust upon the judiciary. The opposition men’s houses and other establishments are taken away with the political influence. The ruling party cadres have stepped into new dimension of violating human rights by grabbing and capturing the properties of the people of other community and dissident sections.

Controlling the political activities:

The constitution of Bangladesh assures the rights to hold procession and rallies by all parties. The constitution also secures the press freedom. But we are observing that the government is oppressing and imprisoning the opposition men in the name of war crimes trial, or tackling militancy or resisting terrorism. The opposition parties are not allowed to hold programs and rallies. In the name of mobile court, the government is subduing the opposition men aggressively. Such situation cannot exist in a country where rule of law prevails. This is absolutely contradictory to the spirit of the constitutionally ensured fundamental rights.

A short data of the torture and repression that took place against Jamaat-e-Islami, Chhatrashibir, Jamaat’s women wing and Islami Chhatri Shangstha is given below:

Law enforcement agency, their logistics, employment opportunities, allowances, salaries, arms and equipment- all are afforded by the money levied as tax from general citizens of the country. But in recent days, law enforcement agencies have started functioning like the government party hooligans. They are extremely aggressive in nature. Since last 5th January, 2015 law enforcement agency men apprehended huge number of opposition and general citizens just to foil the movement of the people. Not only that, law enforcement agency arrested them, the aggressive force members then shot bullet at the legs of the detainees while they are in their custody as an attempt to make them mutilated forever. So many similar incidents are noticed in daily newspapers in Bangladesh in recent times. As family members alleged of getting poor treatment and negligence from the physician and this is why, their legs had to be cut off.

Maulana Abu Yousuf has passed his Kamil (equivalent to Masters) exam few days ago. Police nabbed him from a procession in Chouddogram and then shoot in his leg. On the other hand, as a suspected Jamaat worker, police arrested Maulana Belal Hossen from his Huja Khana (living room) on last 8th February. He needed an injection but for lack of money, affording that injection remains impossible. The environment of that ward is now quite baleful for Noyon and his mother Shikha Rani. His tears came out frequently. He asked his mother how he will continue if he had to lose his leg- ‘what will happen to you, mother!! How much stress will you take in a single life’- Noyon asked his mother.

Noyon was describing about that incident- how he got his life in this turmoil. It was nearly 8 pm when he was walking beside the Victoria Park after his tuition job. He rode a bus for going to Mirhajir Bag. On that time, a bus was burned and he got off from the bus. After getting off from bus, police asked him whether he has any involvement with Jamat-Shibir or not. He denied and replied- ‘my name is Noyon Bachar and I am from Hindu community’. Just after a few seconds, police posed the gun-barrel on his leg and shoot him. Then Noyon got senseless. He could say nothing about the things happened afterward.

Why is it happened? There is no answer of this question to both of them- mother and son. Shikha Rani said- ‘I am petrified now. Noyon’s father left me and migrated to India before Noyon’s birth. His father left us forever. Afterward, I found myself constant into a 22 year long struggle for survival. I made my dream with my son. I promised to make him as an established one with all of my stresses and sacrifices. After Noyon’s enrollment in Jagannath University, I thought, this is the ending of my struggle- after some more days. After his study, he will get a good job and then he will marry a beautiful girl. I along with my son and his groom will lead the rest of my life with happiness and prosperity’. Shikha, after this statement, got herself into tears.

A friend of Noyon Bachar came to the hospital to visit Noyon. He said that Shikha Rani Majumder lived in a small cottage in her paternal house. She used to teach in a local registered primary school with a minimal salary and thus run the family. For the future and study of her son Noyon, she avoided to go to a new family and faced all struggles solely. That friend added that for last 13 days, Noyon needed around 5000 taka daily for his treatment. Every day, he had to take an injection costs 1150 taka. Shikha Rani faced severe crisis to afford this money. She does not have any rich relatives to help her in this situation. She already spent all from her near relatives and her own deposits. For the unavailability of injection, dressing process cannot be continued now.

Police from Pallabi Station alleged that Tinu Bishwash, the businessman threw a cocktail bomb to a police car in Vashanibazar area of Mirpur 11. Afterward, when Tinu was escaping from the spot, police fired at him and consequently, the businessman got fired in both of his legs. Although police claimed that Tinu is a Shibir activist but Tinu claimed to the media workers that he is a businessman. He is, in fact, a garment accessories businessman. Police arrested him when he was going to his residence by rickshaw. Police demand 25 thousand taka to avoid arrest. When he denied paying the money, police shoot in both of his legs. On the other hand, a college student was admitted in hospital with same complain against police. Masud Hossen, the victim of police shot is a secondary level student of Cambrian College, Dhaka.
Masud claimed that he was walking like a pedestrian. He was trying to escape from a noisy environment and police shoot him during that time.

In a visit in National Institute of Traumatology Orthopedics and Rehabilitation (NITOR) it is noticed that there are 17 patients admitted in the institute who got injured from police shot and now, they are in the treatment under police custody. Three of them have lost their legs in last month from these incidents. A nurse from the institute, unwilling to express her identity, informed that in recent times, patients who came here were mostly being fired in their knees. ‘A man fired in his knee is going to be a paralyzed one for the whole life’- she added.

Fearsome 28 October:

28 October, 2006. On the eve of BNP-Jamaat alliance hand over power to the caretaker government, Bangladesh Jamaat-e-Islami successfully organized a rally this day in Dhaka. The rally was organized at the north gate of Baitul Mukarram mosque. Awami League was held a seminar at the same time at platoon. In the last moments of BNP-Jamaat alliance government, the last exhibition of the Awami League’s goal was drunken brute. Many magazines (mostly left genres) reported the clash between the outgoing ruling coalition and the opposition, but in fact did not reflect what really happened at the newspaper, but they are far from the truth. What actually happened on that day?

Moreover, the Awami League president, present prime Minister, Sheikh Hasina, ordered his supporers to attend rally with oar-scull. According to the Awami League’ president order, trained terrorist forces were gathered at their metting with hooks and oars, firearms, sharps knife, more dangerous and deadly types of weapons. There was oar to oar-in until the people had not guessed that's actually going to be. Awami League activists without any provocation on the sudden attack on Jamaat activists! They target activists of Jamaat Islami who are attending in rally. On that day, in broad daylight on the streets of Dhaka, Awami League was beaten brutally and Jamaat-e-Islami and Islami Chhatra Shibir 6 activists were dead. More than a thousand were injured unarmed innocent people by this terrorist attack. In addition, before and after this incident, more than 8 activists of jamaat-e-Islami and Islami Chhatra Shibir were martyred outside of capital.

How cruel and brutal killers was! The long day of martyrdom and blood scenes on television screen and print media has published and the ruling body of terrorists, armed attacks and atrocities-dancing craze has spread all around the world. This unit comes up in the list of martyr’s brutality Mujahid, Jasim-1, Masum, Shahjahan Ali, Arafat, Jasim-2, Rafiq, Javed Ali, Habib, Saber, Abbas and Ruhul Amin such like young life.
